From: GOVERNING Daily
To: Carlton, M.Catherine
Subject: Are Nonprofits the New Go-To Choice for Altruistic Jobseekers?
Date: Friday, April 21, 2017 6:16:38 AM

View Newsletter in Browser

Today's Government News

Subscribe to Governing Magazine & Newsletters
Follow us on Facebook / Twitter / LinkedIn

FEATURED STORY FOR APRIL 21, 2017

Are Nonprofits the New Go-To Choice for Altruistic Jobseekers?

Public service students appear to be shying away from working in government, possibly worsening the sector's longtime hiring struggle.

ADVERTISEMENT

Sponsor: APHSA

LATEST GOVERNING NEWS & COMMENTARY

FINANCE

The Week in Public Finance: Ballmer's Data Trove, Grading Pension Health and a New Muni Bond Threat

A roundup of money (and other) news governments can use.

HEALTH & HUMAN SERVICES

Feds Help Localities Discover Where HIV and Housing Intersect

People who have HIV but lack stable housing are less likely to get the care they need. Some places are trying to solve both problems at once.

LATEST WEB HEADLINES

MANAGEMENT & LABOR

- Losing Too Many Police Recruits to Past Pot Use, Maryland Eases Its Qualifications

ELECTIONS

- Will Chaffetz and Herbert Shake Up Utah's Race for Governor?

POLITICS

- Hawaiians Fire Back at Sessions' Diss of Their State and Power

PUBLIC SAFETY & JUSTICE

- How Cities and States Are Shielding Immigrants' Data From Federal Officials
- Arkansas Carries Out First Execution Since 2005
- FDA: States Can't Import Execution Drugs

NEWS IN NUMBERS

$1.01 billion

Medicaid savings if every state had offered medical marijuana in 2014, according to a new study, which found that legalization of the drug lowered use of other prescription drugs.

MORE

WHO SAID THAT?

"Vending machines are not born with a bias. It doesn't have a personality and doesn't care how you look when you approach it."

MORE

Unsubscribe | Opt out of all e.Republic email | Privacy Statement
© 2017 e.Republic. All rights reserved. 100 Blue Ravine Road, Folsom, CA 95630. Phone: 916-932-1300